Coffee Corner

These are from a book called Disorder in the Court.

Q: What was the first thing your husband said to you when he woke up that morning?

A: He said, "Where am I, Cathy?"

Q: And why did that upset you?

A: My name is Susan.

Q: Is your appearance here this morning pursuant to a deposition notice which I sent to your attorney?

A: No, this is how I dress when I go to work.

A father was bending over to tie his three-year-olds shoes, when the boy noticed his dad's head. He gently touched the slightly thinning spot of hair and said in a concerned voice, "Daddy, you have a hole in your head. Does it hurt?" After a pause, came the reply, "Not physically."

The older we get, the fewer things seem worth waiting in line for.

When you are dissatisfied and would like to go back to your youth, think of Algebra.

I don't know how I got over the hill without getting to the top.

A very nervous man, accompanied by his nagging wife, was examined by a doctor. After checking the chart, he nodded and wrote the man a prescription for a powerful tranquilizer. The man asked, "How often do I take these." "Let's start off with once every six hours. But they're not for you." replied the doctor. "They're for your wife."

A gentleman entered a busy florist shop that displayed a large sign that read, "Say It with Flowers."

"Wrap up one rose," he told the florist.

"Only one?" the florist asked.

"Just one," the customer replied.

"I'm a man of few words."

Two elderly women were trying on shoes in our store. When I slipped a shoe onto one woman's foot, the end of my tie got caught beneath her heel.

Unaware of my predicament, she stood up and started toward the mirror. For a few seconds, I found myself crawling along the floor beside her, trying to get her attention.

"Look, Martha," her friend said. "He wants to go home with you!"

"What would you most like for your birthday?" a man asks his wife. She thinks for a minute. "I'd love to be ten again," smiling broadly. So on the morning of her birthday, he gets her up bright and early. Off they go to the local theme park. What a day! He puts her on every ride in the park -- The Death Slide, The Screaming Loop, the Wall of Fear -- everything there is! Wow! She staggers out of the park five hours later, her head reeling and her stomach upside down. Right into McDonald's they go. Her husband orders a double Big Mac for her along with extra fries and a strawberry shake. Then off to a movie. It's the latest Star Wars epic, with plenty of cotton candy, popcorn, Pepsi and M&Ms. What a fabulous adventure of a day! Finally she wobbles home with her husband and collapses into bed. He leans over lovingly. "Well, dear, what was it like being ten again?" She opens one eye and stares at him. "You idiot," she moans. "I meant dress size!"

Flossing

Use dental floss before you brush instead of after as many people do. Flossing after brushing can leave some of the loosened fragments still in your mouth.

Sitting at the bar, sad Rob told the bartender that he was drinking to forget the heartbreak of his broken engagement. "Yeah," said Rob, "would you marry someone who didn't know the meaning of the word faithful, and who was flip and even vicious when the subject of fidelity came up?" "No way," said the bartender. "Well," said Rob, "neither would my fiancée."

A state trooper is driving down the highway when he sees a truck driver pull over, walk to the side of the truck with a tire jack, bang on the side of the truck a few times, and then drive away. A couple of miles down the road the driver does the same thing. A few more miles, same thing. The trooper pulls the truck over and asks the driver to explain. The driver says, "Well, the load limit is ten tons, and I'm carrying fifteen tons of parakeets, so I've got to keep some of them flying around."

Little Johnny went to the doctor to get a vaccination. After the shot, the doctor pulled out a Band-Aid and started to put it on the spot on his arm. Johnny asked him to put it on the other arm. "But, I put it over where you got the shot to let others know that it's tender and they shouldn't touch it," replied the Doc. Johnny answered, "You really don't know much about little boys, do you?"

A good friend of mine warned me that, as my three daughters became old enough to date, I'd disapprove of every young man who took them out.

When the time came, I was pleased that my friend's prediction was wrong. Each boy was pleasant and well mannered.

Talking to my daughter Joanna one day, I said that I liked all the young men she and her sisters brought home.

"You know, Dad," she replied, "we don't show you everybody."

Customer at a counter of a lawn ornament shop: "Give me four of those pinwheels, two of those pink flamingos, two of the sunflowers, and that bent-over grandma in bloomers." Cashier replies: "That'll be eight dollars for the pinwheels, ten dollars for the flamingos, six dollars for the sunflowers, and an apology to my wife!"

Ultimate Stress Management Tip!

Stress is simply the result of arguing against "what is". In other words, making what
"does not" exist (except in imagination) more important than what does exist, which is your present experience.
Look at or feel what is happening "as if" you've never seen or experienced it before. Refrain from trying to change, improve, or avoid it in anyway. Unreservedly welcome it and you will see that not only does it undergo a wonderful transformation;
you will discover your True Nature which is always already ever presently serene, whole, capable, and compassionate.

A young girl came home from a date looking sad. She told her mother, "Charles proposed to me a few minutes ago."

"Then why are you so sad?"
her mother asked.

"Because he also mentioned he was an atheist. Mom, he doesn't believe there's hell!"

Her mother replied, "Marry him anyway. Between the two of us, we'll show him
how wrong he is."

Lead me not into
